1 Health Care

General information on health care

The Tunisian Constitution of 2022 reiterates this right of access to public health granted to every person on Tunisian territory, establishing that “Every human being has the right to health. The Tunisian health sector consists of both public and private institutions. Public institutions comprise infrastructures found in all Tunisian territory, divided into three levels of services:

- First line: Having as an objective to promote health, prevention and first care through the Basic Health Care Centers (CSB, which stands for Centre de Soins de Base), the Intermediary Centers, the Structures of the National Office for Family and Population (ONFP) and the Local Hospitals.
- Second line: Having as an objective to ensure specialized health care through the Regional Hospitals.
- Third line: Having as an objective to ensure health care for extremely specialized cases, scientific research and university education through the Centre Hospitalo-Universitaire (CHU).

Employers, according to national legislation, have the obligation to register all workers to the National Social Security Fund (CNSS) and the National Health Insurance Fund (CNAM). A work contract allows the worker to benefit from social security services and access health services, in public or private institutions. In parallel, in Tunisia there are several Private Insurance Companies, which could be accessed through this link:

Affiliation to CNAM allows the citizens to access all health care services, public or private. For those registered to CNAM, access to public health care services is facilitated, and depending on the nature of their affiliation they either pay only a deterrent fee of 4,5 TND (1,2 euros) at University Hospitals, Institutes and Centers (for Regional and Local Hospitals the fee is 3 and 2 dinars respectively), or they are reimbursed the cost of services. In private clinics, CCNAM settles a ceiling of the expenses for specific operations and treatments. Those without access to CNAM can still benefit from health care services but paying the total amount of the fee, ranging between 7 to 14 TND (2,5 to 4,5 euros depending on the nature of the consultation and the medical specialty). Citizens identified by the Ministry of Social Affairs having limited means to pay for their admission or hospitalisation can have access to the health care assistance program “Medical Assistance Free of charge” (AMG). AMG programs offer either treatment or hospitalisation free of charge (AMG1) or reduced tariffs (AMG2).

Four national programs are aiming at ensuring the prevention of serious diseases but also the free screening, health care and treatment. Not Only Tunisian Children, routine immunization is free of charge for all Children living in Tunisia. Moreover, the National Plans against HIV, tuberculosis and malaria cover entirely the expenses for the screening and the treatment for these diseases. The “Tounesna” National Mechanism for Reintegration is put in place by the

1 Health Care

Office of Tunisians Abroad (OTE) in order to assist and support the socio-economic reintegration of Tunisian returnees. Germany, among other countries and structures, is a partner of Tunisia in the Tounesna framework. The counsellors of the Mechanism can assist returning Tunisian migrants to register or extend their subscription to CNSS and CNAM and therefore benefit from a health care booklet (carnet de soin).

Availability and costs of medication

Medical Facilities and doctors of both public and private sector are available in several cities and towns in all 24 governorates of Tunisia. Citizens can find a doctor through the websites:

- <http://www.santetunisie.rns.tn/fr/component/specialistes/>
- <https://allo-docteur.com.tn/fr>
- <https://tunisie-medicale.com/index.php/>
- <https://www.tunisiemedicale.com/>
- www.med.tn

Furthermore, the following phone numbers can be also used:

- Allo Docteur: 23 128 134 – 24 882 275
- Emergencies (SAMU): 190
- SOS Médecins : 71 744 215
- SOS Ambulance : 71 725 555

Admission to medical facilities

All patients carrying an identification document can be admitted to medical facilities. Patients need to refer to the first line of medical facilities, as mentioned above. These structures will direct them to a superior level of services depending on the needs. People residing near regional hospitals (secondary care) can seek care there if they have an appointment or in case of an emergency. Emergency units are accessible to everyone, even without identification documents observed which are being replaced by substituting generics. The medications available in Tunisia are listed on the website of the Central Pharmacy of Tunisia. Pharmacies can be found within hospitals from which all persons affiliated with CNAM can buy medicine but also private pharmacies can be found in all neighborhoods in urban and rural areas. Medication is relatively cheap, compared to other countries in the region. Public health insurance covers partly, fully or reimburses the cost of medication depending on the "status" of the person registered. Based on the employment survey of the third quarter of 2025¹, conducted by the National Institute of Statistics (INS), the labor force participation rate is estimated at 68,6% for men and 31,4% for women. The unemployment rate reaches 15,4% (with a mild fluctuation compared to previous trimesters). In the fourth quarter of 2025, the unemployment rate evolved as follows (by gender): Decrease of 0.5 points for men and an increase of 1.5 for women, reaching, respectively, 12.1% and 22.4%. The unemployment rate among young people (15-24 years) is 40,1% (compared to 36,8% in the 2nd quarter of 2025). This rate is estimated at 39.8% for men and 42,7% for women. Tunisia's minimum wage² is set at 528.320 Tunisian dinars per month for a 48-hour work week and 448.238 dinars per month for a 40-hour workweek for the industrial sector. The daily pay of agricultural worker was raised from 18,904 dinars to 20,320 dinars. Agricultural workers are supplemented with transportation and family allowances.

Finding employment

The Agency for employment and self-employment (ANETI)³ is implementing the government's policy relative to the promotion of the employment and assisting job seekers in acquiring information, knowledge and competencies that enhance career development, entrepreneurship, employability and professional integration. The agency operates through 110 offices across the country. The Career and Competency Certification Centers ("4C")⁴ provide all students and graduates of higher education with access to counseling, training, certification and help to search and apply for jobs that match graduates' skills. Several private online job-matching platforms also exist. Job seekers can make their online profile which contains their contacts and other employment details. Companies can post vacancies there and search for candidates. The most famous ones are: Tanitjobs, Keejob, Optioncarrière.

Unemployment assistance

ANETI offers programs that allow young job seekers to do internships in order to develop professional skills and competencies and ensure their professional integration. Three programs are available for companies to encourage them to hire young professionals (CIVP, Karama)⁵.

Further education and training

The Tunisian agency for vocational training (ATFP)⁶ has 136 training centres throughout Tunisia, offering more than 372 courses in 12 sectors and delivering different types of diplomas: BTS, BTP, CAP. <http://www.atfp.tn/index.php/ar/>

Access for returnees

Eligibility and requirements: The Tounesna National Mechanism for Reintegration in cooperation with ANETI organise information sessions concerning the programs of profession reintegration and orientation for the benefit of Tunisian returnees. These sessions aim to support Tunisian returnees to equip themselves better to seek jobs in Tunisia.

Registration procedure: The Dispositif Tounesna is currently on standby. There are no new cases recorded. The Tounesna system agents are currently finalizing the cases recorded during the first phase of the program. Tunisian returnees can consult the nearest OTE office on the Tounesna Mechanism assistance to professional reintegration.

3 Housing

General information on housing

The average rent in Tunisia is 708 Tunisian Dinars (TND), the equivalent of 214 euros, for an 85 m2 non-furnished apartment or house in a normal area. These prices are not representative in areas such as the northern suburbs of Tunis where rents are higher. In an accommodation similar to the one mentioned above, heating, electricity and gas amount to 200 TND per month (61 euros). There is demand and supply of housing options in both rural and urban areas.

Finding accommodation

Facilitators to finding accommodation in Tunisia are freelance real estate agents and real estate companies and offices. The fee/price for their services usually amounts to one or two months of rent. Moreover, it is common that apartments for rent are posted in websites such as tayara.tn, mitula.tn, tunisie-annonce.com or in Facebook groups such as Location/ Colocation Tunisie, Via/vie Tunisie and others.

- <https://www.tayara.tn/ads/c/Immobilier?price=0,1000000/>

Social grants for housing

No social grants for housing available in Tunisia.

Access for returnees

Eligibility and requirements: The Tounesna Mechanism offers housing assistance to Tunisian returnees from Switzerland in need of housing, depending on the limits of its funding. Furthermore, there are two associations managing shelters in collaboration with IOM where returnees and especially vulnerable single mothers with children can refer to in case they are in need of housing. The Tounesna mechanism is currently on standby. The Tounesna system does not provide services for Tunisians returning from Switzerland only.

Registration procedure:

Returnees finding themselves in need for housing should contact Association Beity and Association Amal. Their contact details are found at the end of this document.

Accommodation for Tunisian returnees is not an easily and automatically accessible service. Associations dedicated to accommodation accept applications after studying the person's file, but since places are very limited, we cannot say that this is an accessible service.

Required documents: Returnees will need to provide the associations with their ID card and a document proving their vulnerable status.

4 Social Welfare

General information on social welfare

The Tunisian social protection system consists of social insurance schemes for workers and social assistance programs for the inactive and workers ineligible for social insurance schemes. The social protection system has both contributory and non-contributory elements. Social security is financed by the contributions of employers and employees. However, social aids are funded from the state budget, civil society, individual donations, companies and institutions, regional and global funds. Social transfers are ensured from the state budget. The major national institutions managing social insurance for workers in Tunisia are the National Social Security Fund (CNSS) for the private sector and the Tunisians working abroad, the National Pension and Social Insurance Fund (CNRPS) for the public sector and the National Health Insurance Fund (CNAM) both for the public and the private sector. Social insurance schemes cover Tunisian workers abroad, as well as Migrant workers. It includes Insurance against occupational accidents and diseases and Health, maternity, and pensions. The social assistance programs include financial aid, healthcare, and family allowances.

Pension system

Pensions are calculated on the basis of the highest salary for public sector workers, while in the private sector they are based on an average of wages from the last ten years. The minimum pension is equal to two thirds of the minimum wage for those who work in public and salaried non-agricultural sectors, while it is only 30 per cent for non-salaried workers. Pensions are in the form of contributory insurance, categories such as the inactive, housewives, and the unemployed are excluded. Education is compulsory until the age of 16 as mentioned in the article 39 of the 2014 Constitution. In 2025, according to the Ministry of Education, there were more than 4500 schools in Tunisia. Almost 13% of these schools are private institutions. The number of private schools has been raising in Tunisia during the last decade. The academic year starts in September and ends in June. The language of education is mainly Arabic. French and English are taught from the third year of primary school as foreign languages but are also often used in higher education. The education system is divided in public and private schools. French-speaking schools are also well established in Tunisia. An all-day care for elementary school children and kindergartens children is available but usually in private schools and kindergartens.

6 Children

General situation of children and infants

According to the constitution, it is the responsibility of the parents and the State to guarantee the child's dignity, health, care and education. However, the socio-economic situation of the parents affects the child's access to their fundamental rights (nutrition, health, water, housing). In the case of a threat to the physical and mental integrity of the child, the Family Judge and the General Delegate for Child Protection can act in accordance with the child protection code and take the necessary measures to their protection, depending on the situation.

(Non-) governmental actors dealing with children's well-being and rights

The protection of children's rights as well as their well-being is the mandate of various governmental and non-governmental actors in Tunisia. To begin with, the Ministry of Women, Family, Children and Seniors is the main governing body concerning children's well-being and rights. Under the auspices of the Ministry, the National Delegate for Child Protection, the Family Judge as well as the National Institute for Child Protection are the main actors overseeing the protection and promotion of children's rights and their wellbeing.

Apart from the national actors, various international and non-governmental organisations (NGOs) are working towards the same objective. The main UN body promoting the rights and the well-being of children in the areas of health and education in Tunisia is UNICEF. National and international NGOs such as Save the Children Tunisia, SOS Villages d'Enfants, the Association Tunisienne de défense des droits de l'enfant, Association Amal pour la famille et l'enfant, Voix de l'enfant Tunisia, Un Enfant, des sourires are also operating in Tunisia.
