II. Health Care (1/2)

I. General Information

The Government tries to provide free medical treatment and medication for all Iranian nationals. There are two different types of health insurance coverage: either through employment or private, both under Iranian public insurance TAMIN EJTEMAEI www.tamin.ir/

Children's health insurance is normally covered by their parents' health insurance.

Insurance through employment: Government employees benefit from free access to public health insurance through their employment. Private companies cover the accidental insurance for their own employees.

Private insurance: Except for governmental employees, all other Iranian citizens have to insure themselves privately if their employers do not insure them. To obtain insurance coverage, it is necessary to provide:

- A copy of the Iranian birth certificate
- A passport-size picture
- A complete medical check-up

SALAMAT insurance: This new private insurance is provided by the Ministry of Health and covers up to 80-90% of health expenses. Individuals can register for SALAMAT insurance through its website: <http://isc.bimesalamat.ir/isc/>

The registration requires a small fee (IRR 20.000), which needs to be paid. Per year IRR 2.450.000 should be paid by the beneficiary. There are doctors and private centers that accept public/SALAMAT insurance to cover a part of the expenses. To be covered up to 90%, one needs to refer to government/ public hospitals and centers. TAMIN EJTEMAEI hospitals cover 100% of insured clients.

The following insurance companies do not offer private health insurance coverage, however, they do offer accidental insurance for individuals. The related costs vary according to the type of coverage, age, etc.:

Benefits and Costs:

All benefits vary according to the provided plan, which the client will be informed about upon registration. All costs will be covered by the employer if the returnee begins to work in an Iranian organization or business. Otherwise, the costs will have to be paid by the returnee personally.

2. Medical treatment and medication

Medical facilities and doctors:

Up to 90% of the rural population has access to Primary Health Care (PHC) services delivered in Health Houses and Rural Health centers. Urban coverage, however, is less percentage-wise but is well compensated by private outlets.

In the past three decades, the Islamic Republic of Iran has adopted a policy aimed at better addressing the needs of its population, and substantial progress has been achieved both in the social and economic sectors. In rural areas, each village or group of villages contain(s) a Health House, staffed by the trained "Behvarz" or community health workers. In urban areas, similarly distributed urban health posts and Health Centers have been established.

The whole network is managed and administered through District Health Centers under the Ministry of Health and Medical Education. The medical universities (one in each province), play an important role in medical education and in the provision of health services.

II. Health Care (2/2)

The Chancellor of the university functions as the executive director of provincial health services and is also in charge of all district health centers and hospitals.

Although there were shortages in importing some special medicine groups during the recent sanctions against Iran, there is no serious lack of medicines, specialists, or equipment in the public health system of Iran. Pharmaceutical products are vastly imported under the supervision of the Ministry of Health. Private sector is also available especially in bigger cities offering various ranges of prices for those who want to benefit from private hospitals and health services.

While almost all health services are available in public hospitals at a very low price and could be covered by health insurance, sometimes due to the long queues, lengthy waiting, duration of admission, overcrowded public centers, and better services at private health centers, people prefer to pay more and refer to the private health facilities.

Procedure of admission:

There are hospitals and clinics available in every district of all cities in Iran.

It is mandatory for all hospitals to accept emergency cases 24/7 and for less urgent situations, it depends on the patient's decision to refer to a doctor, a clinic, or a district hospital. It would be best to contact each center first to make an appointment.

Availability and costs of medication:

The Red Crescent has been determined as the focal point for the importation of some specific medicines and provides such medicines for special patients through designated pharmacies. In general, all medicaments are available in Iran. Some medications might have a high price due to sanctions. Medicaments are usually only distributed in small quantities, in order to avoid resale on the black market.

Children's health insurance is normally covered by their parents' health insurance.

Registration procedure :

Health insurance is available to register at the Tamin Ejtemaei website: <http://www.tamin.ir/>
All benefits vary according to the provided plan, which the client will be informed about upon registration.

III. Labour Market and Employment (1/2)

I. General information

According to the statistical center of Iran, the labor force (Autumn 2018) was 23,922,028 (aged 10 and over). A review of the economic participation rate (activity rate) reveals that 40.5% of the population of working age (10 years and over) are economically active; i.e. they count either as employed or officially unemployed. The economic participation rate stands lower for women compared to men and is lower in urban areas than in rural areas.

A review of the unemployment rate among population aged 10 and over showed that 11.7 percent of the economically active population is unemployed. This rate stands higher for women compared to men and rural areas in contrast to urban areas. A review of employment in major economic sectors indicates that the services sector holds the biggest share of employment with 49.9% of the total, followed by manufacturing sector with 32.9% and agriculture sector with 17.2%.

For more details in regard to current developments of major labor force indicators, please refer to the below table.

Average income:

- Construction workers: The average salary is approx. 15,168,822 IRR per month
- Taxi drivers: average salary is between 800,000 and 1,500,000 IRR per day
- Municipality workers: minimum daily salary is 505,627 IRR
- Computer Specialists: average salary of approx. 50,000,000 IRR per month

The annual job creation by governmental organizations and private companies does not match with the number of people entering the job market. Therefore the competition is very high, especially considering that 70% of the Iranian population is younger than 35 years. The Ministry of Labor is pursuing a comprehensive plan, to be approved by Majlis (parliament), according to which, lots of jobs can be created for the jobless through specific cooperatives.

III. Labour Market and Employment (2/2)

2. Ways/ assistance to find employment

To access the labor market, it is necessary to hold a birth certificate and to get special permission from a relevant labor union. This rule applies to all Iranian citizens. Holding a valid certificate or university degree increases the chance to find employment in line with the specialty. The best tools for finding employment in Iran are newspaper ads and internet surfing, e.g. online ads such as <http://divar.ir>.

There are many placement agencies in big cities that can help to find suitable jobs based on the returnee's qualifications and experiences.

3. Unemployment assistance

General information on public and/or private unemployment assistance:

There is no unemployment assistance provided by the state, unless you or your employer have paid a specific amount to an insurance company per month for this reason during the working period (at least 6 months).

Benefits and Costs:

The minimum monthly fare to be paid as social welfare (including health insurance/ pension/ unemployment assistance fare) would be IRR 3,672,170 out of which IRR 2,885,330 would be paid by the employer and the rest by the employee. Those who have paid the fare at least for six months in a row, are eligible for 55% of the declared monthly wage.

4. Further education and training

There are many private vocational training centers in Iran. Due to the high rate of unemployment, the Government is trying to promote these centers. A list of schools and other institutions related to education/ training is available in all municipalities.

More information about vocational training is available on the following websites:

- <http://www.mohme.gov.ir>,
- <http://www.irantvto.com>

Unemployment Assistance: Access for Returnees

Eligibility and requirements:

Those who have paid a specific monthly amount to an insurance company or their employer has paid its share for at least six months.

Registration procedure:

All Iranian citizens including returnees can register for the social security at the Tamin Ejtemaei, <http://www.tamin.ir/> or any other private insurance companies.

Required documents:

- A copy of the Iranian birth certificate
- A passport-size photo
- The last contract
- Letter from employer

Other additional documents might be requested later on.

IV. Housing

I. General information

In general, there are sufficient houses and apartments available in Tehran and throughout the country. The price of purchasing or renting a residence depends on the area. Renting a property in Iran always requires a deposit and monthly rent. These also vary according to the location, property condition, and size.

The monthly rent for a one-bedroom apartment in the city center (non-expensive areas) would cost approx. 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 IRR (not included utility bills and down payment).

The amount of 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 IRR normally is requested from the owner as the apartment down payment. Higher down payment would decrease the monthly rent and vice versa (all numbers apply to 2018).

Subsidized housing is only available for government employees. Returnees without a place to stay can stay in hotels until they find a solution. Compared to the countryside, cities are more expensive regarding accommodation and living costs, even though there are a higher variety and availability of different types of accommodation in urban areas.

2. Ways/ assistance to find accommodation

The best way to find properties is to refer to housing agencies (real estates). These are available even in small villages in Iran. The returnee can tell the agent their budget and ask for a house based on their financial ability. Many online property search engines are also available, such as <http://iranfile.ir/>

3. Social grants for housing

A housing loan is available through the Maskan Bank for buying houses, but there are many limitations to receiving a loan with respect to the country's current financial situation. Since the loan/social grant rules are being changed many times during these years and the payback interest is very high, people normally prefer to avoid applying for housing loans.

IV. Housing

Housing: Access for Returnees / Vulnerable Groups

There is no shelter for the returnees to Iran to temporary stay in after their return to the country but for the returnees under IOM Assisted Voluntary Return and Reintegration (AVRR) project could be booked with hotel rooms for a few days upon request from the sending country (for more information you can contact IOM Tehran or IOM offices in the country you are staying).

The government temporary shelters also known as “Warmhouses”, are limited to places to accommodate extremely vulnerable homeless people and addicts.

Housing/ shelter opportunities for VoTs, victims of domestic violence, single mothers etc. :

There are social emergency services providing counselling sessions, protection, and shelter for the extremely vulnerable groups and victims of domestic violence. The social emergency is available through the phone number: 123. More information can be found at:

<https://www.yasa.co/blog/social-emergency-123-phone-ready-to-receive-reports-of-violence-against-wife/>

V. Social Welfare (1/2)

I. General information

Free education and health services are available as social welfare services for all Iranian nationals. Other services might be offered by the individual's employer or the private welfare company/organization.

Costs:

Covered costs and benefits vary according to the plan. The client would be informed upon registration about which benefits apply to them.

Funds are contributed by the insured person, the employer and the government in the following proportions:

- Insured person: 7% of earnings. Voluntarily insured persons contribute 26% of earnings; commercial drivers contribute 10% of their earnings
- Employer: 20% of payroll; and
- Government: 3% of payroll, including voluntarily insured persons; 17% for commercial drivers

In addition to subsidize certain strategic industries, the government pays the employer's contributions for up to 5 employees per company.

Social Welfare System: Access for Returnees

Eligibility and requirements:

All Iranian nationals, including returnees, are eligible for the TAMIN EJTEMAEI welfare system, which is the only public welfare/ health insurance in Iran, <http://www.tamin.ir/>

Registration procedure:

The returnee would register through the above-mentioned website, which leads them to required documents according to their selected/suggested plan.

Registration documents :

A copy of the Iranian birth certificate, a passport-size photo, and a complete medical check-up are the basic required documents. Additional documents might be requested by the insurance office according to the chosen plan.

2. Pension System

The system covers all employed and self-employed persons. Self-employed persons may choose different levels of coverage. Voluntary coverage is available for previously insured persons up to age 55 with at least 30 days of coverage and for drivers of commercial vehicles. Special systems are provided for government employees and armed forces personnel. For employees, membership in the social security system is compulsory.

Social security ensures protection against unemployment, diseases, old age and occupational accidents. In 2003, the government began to consolidate its welfare organizations to eliminate redundancy and inefficiency.

Benefits:

The benefits will be calculated based on the beneficiary's salary, especially the salary of the last two years, and for private plans, it will be based on their monthly contributions/plans.

Costs:

A major part of the costs will be covered by the employer if the returnee starts working (being employed) in an Iranian organization/business. Otherwise, the costs must be paid personally by the returnee according to the chosen plan.

For employees, 7% of their monthly salary has to be paid by themselves and for self-business runners and private applicants, the whole monthly contribution has to be paid by themselves.

V. Social Welfare (2/2)

Pension System: Access for Returnees

Eligibility and requirements:

All Iranian nationals who are employed as well as self-payers.

Registration procedure :

Generally, employers are in charge of the employees' registration. For self-payers TAMIN EJTEMAEI welfare system, which is the public welfare/pension organization in Iran, should be addressed via: <http://www.tamin.ir/>

Registration documents :

A copy of the Iranian birth certificate, a passport-size photo, the employment contract and a letter from the employer.

3. Vulnerable Groups

Since there is no agreed definition for vulnerability it is not possible to list the vulnerable groups, but there are public and private organizations as well as NGOs which are providing specialized services for their defined target groups.

Generally, there are two types of centers providing services to the vulnerable groups in Iran: public and private ones. Public centers are normally overpopulated with long queues. The beneficiaries who prefer less crowded places or being in close contact with their specialists/service providers would refer to private centers which are usually smaller specialized clinics or centers.

The most famous public organization which covers gender projects, old persons, disabled persons (including mental health problems), ethnic and religious minorities, etc. is BEHZISTI which is open for all citizens. There are also social and daily life consultation programs for ordinary people.

For example, BEHZISTI is providing a wide range of services to different vulnerable groups such as drug addicts, single mothers, labor children, UMCs, mentally and physically disabled persons, aged, and etc.

Some services are socio-psychological sessions, consultation services, warm houses and dormitories mental and physical rehabilitation services, treatment of addiction, and more. Access to public services is equal for all citizens but, as mentioned, there are additional supports for vulnerable groups who are covered by the communities/organizations.

There are some centers providing services for people in need under the supervision of the BEHZISTI organization. Such services for vulnerable persons are free but since there are many requests and due to some limitations, people sometimes prefer to pay for private centers.

For more info about BEHZISTI please refer to: <http://www.behzisti.ir/Portal/Home/>

Access for vulnerable persons:

The best way to find the nearest BEHZISTI branch to the returnee's residence is to find it at their website (find link above).

For the Imam Khomeini Relief Foundation which is also active in the field use the contact details below:

- Beside Refah Hyper Market,
Makhsous Road, Azadi Sq., Tehran, Iran
Tel: +98 21 44690839 and +98 21 44690752

They will help with the required documents and the registration procedure according to the client's situation.

VI. Educational System

I. General Information

Education in Iran is highly centralized and is divided into K-12 education and higher education. While K-12 education for school children is supervised by the Ministry of Education (<http://www.medu.ir/fa/>), higher education is under the supervision of the Ministry of Science, Research and Technology (<https://www.msrt.ir/en>).

Prior to the university level, all institutions are gender segregated, beginning at the pre-school level. Iran has 107 state universities including 28 medical universities, as well as a significant number of government research institutes. There are 25 private universities, including the Islamic Azad University, which has branches all over the country.

Find a list of higher education institutions and universities at: <https://www.4icu.org/ir/>

Kindergartens and Pre-schools are available at almost every district of cities. The tuition fee of these centers (1 to 4 stars) varies according to the location, educational and fun space, quality level of services, etc. and starts from 6,000,000 to 84,000,000 IRR per year. Children and parents' Shenanameh (ID), medical checkup and vaccination certificate is required for application. It is suggested to meet the center's managers to talk about facilities and fees.

Educational level	Age
Child care / nursery school (optional)	0-3
Kindergarten (optional)	3-5
Primary level (mandatory)
Pre-school	6
Primary school (6 years)	7-13
Secondary level
High School (6 years = 3 + 3)	13-19
Higher education
University	from 19

2. Cost, loans and stipends

As a general rule, primary, secondary and higher education are free, although private schools and universities do exist and are permitted to charge tuition fees.

The entrance examination, called KONKUR, is based on the space in the university. As the space in universities has increased over the years, the competition is not as high as before, except for universities in bigger cities and more interesting majors such as medicine or engineering.

Most universities in Iran have their own financial aid offices to help students fund their studies. Ferdowsi University of Mashhad for example, has an Office of Student Welfare to provide loans and financial aids to students, i.e. tuition loan, lodging loan, marriage loan, loan for buying research facilities, etc.

(<http://refahsalamat.um.ac.ir/index.php?lang=fa>)

Educational Administrative Affairs (EAA) gives some discounts to students as well, according to their rank among their peers. You may access each university's EAA information and facilities through that university's website.

Access and requirements to stipends and/or loans for covering tuition

Stipends and loans are available at student welfare offices located in almost every university. The newest list of available funds, which are accessible based on the students' conditions (marital status, city, study level), is available through the link below:

www.swf.ir/pages/downloadcenter/go.php?id=207

3. Approval and verification of foreign diplomas

The Office of Graduated Students of the Ministry of Education is responsible for the accreditation and verification of foreign diplomas. The list of acceptable universities is also available at this office's website: <http://grad.saorg.ir/>

VII. Concrete Support for Returnees

I. Reintegration assistance programs
